AUSTIN PROMISED LITTLE BOY WOODEN LEG

J. Will Taylor Charges Competitor With Failing to Make Promise Good.

(Special to The News.) July 27.-Concluding a series of debates, Congressman R. W. Austin and J. Will Taylor, candidates for the republication nomination from Second district, spoke before 2,000 people here Friday night.

During Taylor's rejoinder the house was thrown in uproar when he under-took to tell of a crippled boy from Roane county, whom he said Austin had promised a wooden leg ten years ago and never kept his promise. Austin objected to the story in rejoinder, and Taylor said he would let Austin reply later.

When the time came for Austin's reply the audience began to leave and would not listen to him. Austin said he did not remember making such a promise. Austin refuted the charge that he had done nothing for his dis-trict.

ANOTHER TELEGRAM GOES ASTRAY; CAUSES LAWSUIT

A misdirected telegram was the basis for a law suit filed in the circuit court Saturday morning. The style of the case is Mrs. K. Vaughn Manning against the Western Union Telegraph company. The complainant charges that some weeks ago her sister sent her a telegram stating that her baby had died and asked Mrs. Manning to come to the funeral. The telegram was directed to the Read house, where Mrs. Manning works, but through alleged fault of the defendant company, was sent to the Grand hotel. It was several days afterwards before it was deeral days afterwards before it was delivered to the proper address. The complainant charges that she never heard anything of the death of her sis ter's baby until after it had been buried. The suit is for $5,000, and was buried.
